

Be still and know that I am God

Southwark people from 6 different congregations gathered to go up the tower to pray.

It was a couple of days after Storm Doris and we could physically feel the force of the wind at the top.

As we prayed North, South, East and West one person had a picture that our prayers were like meteors firing down from heaven to the land around. They were blessings of purity and transformation. The prayers represented meteoric change so we could pray big and specific prayers of faith.

When we came down the tower we gathered in a prayer room to de-brief. However, no words came and we basked in the tangible presence of God. As that drew to a close, we got a strong word that God said he loved the missional prayers we were praying from the tower and wants to bless the missional activity that we are involved with as His church - at the same time he wanted to remind us that it must all come out of a place of intimacy with Him. To sit quietly and be together with Him was just as powerful as standing in the forceful wind of the tower calling in meteoric change.
